Halloween Spirits Up to All Sorts of Pranks-No

Arrests Made. Memphis Friday presented a weird,

Memphis Friday presented a weird, climost cyclonic, apparance in many piaces as a result of one of the worst Halloween nights experienced in recent years by citizens and the entire police force of the city. Wrecked chairs, benches, fences and gates litter the streets and sidewalks and here and there a bit of furniture is found resiling high on a telephone pole.

Until 11 o'clock Thursday night the day police relief remained on duty to assist their unfortunats brothers around their of the inglit relief. From the standpoint of Halloween "spirits," clad in sheets, Mardi Gras costumes, and other paraphernalia, the night's revelry was a huge success.

"Jake" Groskind, night Gamewell operator at the police station, gave up the ghost at midnight, almost a total wreck, after answering 9 calls for police, besides more than 200 reports of officers on their beats. The first call came in at 6:02 from North Memphis, where boys were tearing up the gravel on North Second street in "Bear Wallow."

assailed the 14 points in of a vigorous partisan fight of the American congress, cosevelt and Senator Lodge 1901s, through the election of Damage Already Done.

Damage Already Done.

Whatever the Republican leaders may have said on domestic questions in support of their desire for a Republican congress, those charged with the responsibility of conducting America's foreign affairs in these critical geometrical feel that already incalculable damage has been done to the prestige of the president abroad by the opposition of such prominent leaders as Col. Roosevelt, William Howard Taft and Semator Lodge. In other words, the president is more anxious now than ever that the country shall say whether it wants his leadership or the leadership of the Republicans as already revealed by their attitude on the 14 points.

Mr. Wilson considers that the 14 points are, of course, general principles and their practical application is a matter for conference among the allies, but the vehement repudiation at this time of some of the principal bases of an entiring peace is considered by our government officials to be most regrettable. When the president said that Europeon peoples understand the significance of elections, he was referring as much to the peoples of the allied countries as to Germany. The masses the American editors who have just returned from England and France where they went at the invitation of one of the allied governments are saying that the thing which amazed them most about their trip was the remarkable hold which President Wilson had on the peoples of France and Great Britain. The people, one editor remarked, have unlimited confidence in Mr. Wilson's ability to get a just peace.

The secretary of the havy voices the feeling of the government at Washington, when he says:

Accordingly it is rar more likely that we shall see the Austrian army dissoive like Lee's army after it left the lines of Richmond, instead of campaign, we shall henceforth look for a military promenade by the Italians until they have liberated their own invited territories and approached the gates of Trieste. Then, as the essential preliminaries to an armistice, Austria will have to surrender Trieste, Pela and the Trentina, with Franzenfeste.

Thaly Deserves Success.

Italy Deserves Success. There is poetic justice in the present success of Italy. The long series of reverses which brought us to our grave crisis last June began on the military side with the Italian disaster on Caporetto. The turn of the tide which has carried us te certain victory began with the Italian victory at the Plave last June. It would be an unfair thing if the Italians were not able before an armistice comes to drive the Austrians from their comes of the drive the Austrians from the Germans from French and Belgian soit.

What a change, after all, this final autumn sees! In the last weeks of 1915 isolated Serbia was sinking to swift

Victory in All Directions.

Victory in All Directions.

And now it is victory all around. Fianders is cleared of Germans, Franco nearly delivered, the east is in alled hands, Turkey is finished, Austria falling to pitiable chaos. Germany is on the brink of surrender. And it may easily prove that as italy supplied the first splendid phase in the great cycle of victories of the present year, by her defense at the Plave, she may supply the final episode by her offensive thrust across the same river. Thus in a very read sense the Plave is become the Italian Marne.

Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria are done; the battle of the Palestine finished the Turk; the battle of the Czerma-Vardar for the Bulgars; if there was anything left for the Austrian, it will not survive the second battle of the Plave. Our congratulations are for italy; she has suffered much and labored long to bring off this final success. And the fruits of this victory insure the completion of the work of Cavour and Garlhaidi. Henceforth, the complete unification of Italy is a world fact. Italia irredenta is becoming only an evil memory—like Alsace-Lorralie, a great wrong—at last rightly abolished.
